STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Cecil (Lynch) Meeting was established prior to 1694 when its existence was reported to the Maryland General Meeting by George Warner and Stephen Coleman, who said that "a weekly meeting settled in Cecil County (later Kent) and a meeting house lately built." Early members included: James Barber, James Delly, Natthaw Pope, John Beck, James Coursey, William Bailey, and Edward Beck. The land on which the structure was built belonged to Daniel Lamb (see report of Quaker Estate, 1696, K-230) The Meeting continued to exist throughout the 19th century although its membership continually declined. The meeting was laid down in 1900 and the Meeting House taken down by Howard Turner in 1930. In 1952 the property was given to Third Haven Monthly Meeting in Easton and the records transferred to the Friends Historical Library in Swarthmore.

Old Cecil Meeting House

When we built our home in Rose Valley, Pennsylvania in the old Meeting House was falling down and we gained permission to secure some of the brick. We used them in building the fireplace in the den. When we sold our home in 1960 we hoped we might have been able to move them to our new home, but this was impossible, of course.

In October of 1942 the Turner family, who came from Kent and who, like the Lambs, were active in the Meeting, had a celebration at the site of the old Meeting House. There were about thirty-one persons there of the Turner family. We were invited and my wife and I attended. It was a delightful
